IV. VALUATION METHODOLOGY ADOPTED BY THE VALUER

In arriving at the exchange ratio of the equity shares for the merger of the BCH with Virinchi we have determined the values independently but on a relative basis. We have considered the methods relevant and applicable, which included:

- 1) Market Approach:
 - a) Comparable Companies Multiplies Method;
 - b) Current Market Price Method
- 2) Income Approach:
 - a) Discounted Cash Flow
- 3) Cost Approach:
 - a) Net Assets Value method/ Book Value

1) Market Approach:

a) Comparable Companies Multiplies Method:

The market value method has been used since market comparatives are available for a similar set up during the period of valuation considered. Market Approach refers to notion of arriving at the value of the company by comparing it to the market value of similar publicly listed companies. The comparison is based on certain financial ratios or multiples such as Price to Earnings, EV/EBITDA etc., of the equity in question of peers.

To arrive at the Equity value of Virinchi and BCH, the average of PE multiples of the peer companies in the industry at 14.75 and 16.49 respectively have been considered.

As the value of the equity is dependent on the earning capacity of the companies, the same have been appropriately incorporated in the valuation.

The Enterprise value of BCH has been considered based on EV/Bed multiple as it is considered to be one of the most appropriate sector specific multiple for healthcare industry.

b) Current Market Price Method:

The market price of equity as quoted on the stock exchange is normally considered as the value of the equity shares of that company where such quotations are arising from the shares being regularly and freely traded. In the present case the shares of Virinchi are listed in BSE Limited and the volume weighted average share price of Virinchi over an appropriate period has been considered under this method.

The market value of Virinchi is arrived at by considering the higher of 6 months Average Market price or 15 days average market price.

This method is not considered appropriate to value BCH as it is an unlisted company.

2) Income Approach:

a) Discounted Cash Flow Method:

The discounted cash flow method has also been used to value the equity of the companies.

The discounted cash flow method is a modern valuation method which relates the value of an asset to the present value of the expected future cash flows on that asset. Under this the value of the business has been determined by the formula:

$$\text{Value of Business} = \sum \text{CF in period } t / (1 + \text{WACC})^t$$

Where, $t=1$ to n ,

CF = Expected cash flow in period n ,

WACC = Weighted average cost of capital.

The WACC of the companies has been calculated horizontally upto the Year end March 2025. The terminal value has been estimated in the last year of forecast period and the present value of the same is added to present value of all the cash flows. In our valuation model we have considered a stable growth rate of 1%, to arrive at the terminal value.

$$\text{Terminal Value/Perpetuity} = \frac{\text{Final Projected Year Cash Flow}(1 + \text{Growth Rate})}{\text{WACC} - \text{growth rate}}$$

Since DCF model is predominantly used to value the business, higher weightage has been provided to the same while arriving at the valuation of Virinchi and BCH.

3) Cost Approach:

a) Book Value /Net Assets Method

Under this approach, the value of the underlying assets of the business at book value has been considered. Net Asset Value represents net equity of the business after assets and liabilities have been adjusted to their fair values.

In arriving at the fair value of the equity shares of the companies, relative weights have been assigned to all the above methods.

V. CONCLUSION

- 5.1. We have reviewed the methodology as mentioned above adopted by the Valuer for arriving at the fair valuation of the equity shares of Companies and also reviewed the working and underlining assumptions adopted to arrive at the values under each of the above approaches, for the purposes of recommending a ratio of entitlement / exchange.
- 5.2. On the basis of the foregoing points, we are of the opinion that the valuation made by M/s. M. Anandam & Co., Chartered Accountants is fair & reasonable for the proposed Share Exchange Ratio of 571 Equity shares of Virinchi Limited (formerly known as Virinchi Technologies Limited) for every 100 shares of Bristlecone Hospitals Private Limited ('BCH').
